MRINetwork™ Names New Vice President of Marketing Takes Quantitative Approach to Research for Strategic Planning

Philadelphia, PA – MRINetwork, the world's largest search and recruitment organization, has named Tina Facca as its new Vice President of Marketing. MRINetwork, a division of staffing and outsourcing leader CDI Corp. (NYSE:CDI), has nearly 1,100 offices in 35 countries.

With her solid experience in franchise marketing and extensive background in applied research, Facca will spearhead MRINetwork's efforts to strengthen and market its capabilities and expertise in the recruitment space.

Facca joins the MRINetwork from TravelCenters of America where she directed marketing efforts including research and promotional development. Prior to working at TravelCenters, Facca was President of The Foresight Group, a marketing and research firm specializing in research for strategic business planning. Additionally, Facca has also served as VP of Marketing for Damon's International, a franchised casual dining chain.

"Tina brings a wealth of experience and knowledge to our organization," said Michael Jalbert, President of MRINetwork. "As we roll out our agenda in 2007, I'm confident Tina will play a central part in helping us achieve our goals. Tina's proven approach of utilizing quantitative business research coupled with customer feedback as a foundation for product development and marketing strategies is a very strong fit with our plans to strengthen the Network's level of expertise in the recruitment arena."

Facca, who is currently pursuing her Ph.D. in Statistics at Case Western Reserve University, holds a Master's Degree in Applied Communication Theory and Methodology and a Bachelor of Arts in Communication. She has served as an adjunct professor teaching graduate courses in applied statistics, quantitative methods, and marketing at Case, Cleveland State, and John Carroll universities.

MRINetwork, which has been in business for over 40 years, was recently recognized by Entrepreneur Magazine as the number one franchise in the employment/recruitment category, a distinction it has achieved numerous times.
